Statement 2 – Categories of Documents

Section 7(1)(a)(ii) of the FOI Act

Council creates a large number of documents and records in the course of its activities. Council uses an electronic document and records management system to classify, store, access and manage a broad range of electronic and hard copy documents.

The Public Records Act 1973 requires Victorian public agencies and public officers to ‘make and keep full and accurate records’ of their decisions and activities. Additionally, all agencies are obligated to ‘establish and maintain a records management programs in conformity with standards and codes of best practice as established by the Public Records Office of Victoria (PROV). These standards apply equally to paper and electronic record keeping environments.

Council maintains a number of systems to manage and maintain a wide variety of business activities. Many of these systems contain facilities to store and generate documents.

Council uses Content Manager as the Electronic Document Records Management System (EDRMS) for the management of records.

Incoming hardcopy documents are scanned onto the EDRMS and held and maintained in accordance with the Public Record Office of Victoria (PROV) requirements. Other documents born digitally are maintained in a digital form. All emails sent to info@surfcoast.vic.gov.au are also captured into the EDRMS by Records staff.

Council holds a quantity of hardcopy files. These include:

- Files created prior to the introduction of an EDRMS in 2010
- Files created prior to council’s establishment in 1994, including records from Shire of Winchelsea, Shire of Barrabool and City of South Barwon. These hard copy files are stored in off-site storage and are scanned and registered into the EDRMS when access is required
- Planning Permit Application Files
- Planning Enforcement Files
- Contracts and Legal Agreements
- Any other document as required by the Local Government Act.

The Classification Scheme used within the EDRMS is based on the Local Government Classification Scheme. It is a three tier system that is linked with PROV retention and disposal requirements and are outlined below:

1. Function - Prescribed descriptors which outline the functions undertaken by Council;
2. Activity - Reflects the activities performed within the Function; and
3. Subject Files - The topics related to the function-activity pairing. Documents are kept in these files.

Freedom of Information Arrangements

What Is Freedom of Information?

The FOI Act gives you the right to request information held by:

- Ministers
- State government departments
- Local councils
- Most semi-government agencies and statutory authorities
- Public hospitals and community health centres
- Universities, tafe colleges and schools.

The FOI Act gives you:

- a. the right to access documents about your personal affairs and the activities of government agencies; and
- b. the right to request that incorrect or misleading information held by an agency about you be amended or removed.

What information is available?

You have a right to apply for access to documents that are held by an agency which is covered by the FOI Act.

It is not only documents in paper form that are accessible. The word 'documents' covers a broad range of media including maps, films, microfiche, photographs, computer printouts, emails, computer discs, tape recordings and videotapes.

You may ask for a copy of the document, or you may request access to the document, for example, to see a film or to get a transcript of a tape recording.

What information is not available?

Not all information is automatically available.

The FOI Act allows an agency to refuse access to certain documents or information. These documents or information are often called 'exempt' documents.

In some cases you may be refused access to an entire document. Alternatively, you may be given access to a document with exempt information deleted.

Some documents that you may not be able to access include:

- a. cabinet documents
- b. some internal working documents
- c. law enforcement documents
- d. documents covered by legal professional privilege, such as legal advice
- e. documents containing personal information about other people
- f. documents containing information provided to an agency in confidence
- g. documents containing information provided to an agency by a business
- h. documents which are covered by secrecy provisions in other legislation.

This should not deter you from asking for access as each document is assessed on its merits before a decision is made.

Do I Need to Use Freedom of Information to Access Documents?

Many documents are available outside the requirements of the FOI Act. In these instances the request will not be processed under FOI.

Documents you may obtain without an FOI application include information which is available publicly, such as on a public register, and information which is available for purchase.

Please note that if you require documents for a court hearing or litigation, speak to your legal adviser about other methods available to gain access in those circumstances.

Before making a request

Before you make a formal request for access to documents, there are a number of things to consider.

Is the information you seek in a document?

The FOI Act gives you the right to request access to documents. Generally, you cannot request information that does not exist in an existing document or answers to questions under the FOI Act. Remember, a request must be for information contained in documents.

Identify the agency that has the document you seek

Contact the agency to confirm if it has the document before making your request. The agency may be able to tell you how to obtain the document without a formal request, or if another agency has the document.

Is the document you seek publicly available?

For example, it may be published on an agency's website or available for purchase from the agency.

Why do you want access to the document or information?

Consider informing the agency of your reason for seeking access to the document or information, or if you plan to use the document or information for a specific purpose. This may assist the agency to consider whether it can informally release the document or information to you without the need for a formal request.

How Do I Make a Request?

Any individual can make a request, or with written authorisation, enable another person to make a request on their behalf (for example a solicitor).

For an application to be valid it must:

- Be in writing
- Clearly describe the documents being requested
- Include an application fee or evidence of qualification to have the fee waived or reduced (health care card, pension card, financial hardship).

A copy of the application form can be found on council's website at <https://www.surfcoast.vic.gov.au/About-us/Council/Policies-plans-strategies-and-reports/Freedom-of-Information>.

Applications can also be emailed to info@surfcoast.vic.gov.au.

Costs Associated with Making a Request under the Freedom of Information Act 1982

All valid FOI requests must be written and accompanied by an application fee of $31.80 (from 1 July 2023).

The only exception for an application fee to be waived is when hardship or concession status is applied (evidence needs to be included). Fees and charges are imposed by the FOI Act and Freedom of Information Regulations 2019, not Council.

All access charges and fees pertaining to FOI Requests are published on the Council website. Access charges relate to the costs incurred in granting access to the documents you have requested.

All fees and charges are exempt from GST.

Where the fee for access is assessed as likely to exceed $50.00, the applicant will be asked to pay a deposit before the search for documents is begun.

Customer service will contact you to arrange payment of the application fee.

Note: Fees are updated annually on 1 July.

Right of Appeal

If an applicant is dissatisfied with the Freedom of Information Officer's decision to refuse access to a document; defer access to a document; not waive or reduce an application fee (whether or not the fee has already been paid by the applicant) or not amend a document (in accordance with section 39), the applicant may appeal the decision to the Office of the Victorian Information Commissioner (OVIC) for review.
